

Chapters 16 - 18 - Sentences for Word Bank

Acknowledgement: Instead, she found herself nodding her head in acknowledgment. (C18, p115)(WVI-3)

Admit: “If you didn’t have such a smile on your face, I’d be afraid to admit to that, but yes, sir, it was me.” (C16, p101)(WVI-2)[T-2(3-5)]

Admit: “I do like Sam, more than I’m willing to admit, even to myself.” (C18, p112)(WVI-2)[T-2(3-5)]

Aisle: Smiling, Millie moved down the aisle where Eleanor had claimed their seats. (C16, p102)[T-2(5)]

Although: Although the trolley didn’t go into Cumberland Center, she was to remain at the Morrison Hill Station. (C17, p105)(WVI-2)

Amendment: “If President Wilson would bother himself to help get our federal suffrage amendment through Congress, we wouldn’t have to picket him at the White House gates, now, would we?” (C17, p109)(WVI-3)

Approach: To ease their nerves, Millie and Eleanor walked the commercial and residential streets of Gray together, feeling their way on how best to approach people and sell the bonds. (C16, p102)(WVI-2)

Anxiety: Anxiety pricked between her shoulder blades. (C18, p115)(WVI-2)

Anxious: Four hours later, tired and anxious to go home, Millie boarded the interurban, taking a seat across from an older woman who offered her a friendly smile. (C17, p107)(WVI-2)[T-2(3-7)]

Arched: Her mother’s eyebrows arched in surprise. (C17, p105)(WVI-2)[T-2(4-7)]

Assailed: As they neared the pens, the familiar smell of farm animals, the scent of trampled grass and earth, assailed their senses. (C18, p113)(WVI-5)

Atmosphere: “With so many men conscripted or volunteering into service, including farmers, it was a different atmosphere at the fair.” (C18, p117)(WVI-2)[T-2(4-8)]

Attend: “Perhaps you’d like to attend?” (C17, p108)(WVI-2)[T-2(6)]

Attended: I nearly forgot! It’s such a well-attended fair. (C17, p111)(WVI-2)

Attention: With their bright red scarves and Camp Fire Girls bands on their sleeves, the girls drew curious attention as people entered. (C18, p113)(WVI-2)

Blooming: Every time you see Sam, you blush like a blooming rose, and yet you act like you don’t like him at all.” (C18, p112)(WVI-2)

Bond: “It’s the only way my folks can buy a bond.” (C17, p106)(WVI-3)[T-2(4-8)]

Bond: Hungry, in spite of their feet aching, both girls were pleased with the day’s Liberty Bond sales. (C18, p116)(WVI-3)[T-2(4-8)]

Bonds: “And to think we’ll be selling Liberty Bonds by the weekend.” (C16, p102)(WVI-3)[T-2(4-8)]

Chapters 16 - 18 - Sentences for Word Bank

Bonds: To ease their nerves, Millie and Eleanor walked the commercial and residential streets of Gray together, feeling their way on how best to approach people and sell the bonds. (C16, p102)(WVI-3)[T-2(4-8)]

Bonds: “I think we’re both comfortable enough now and can sell these bonds on our own.” (C16, p102)(WVI-3)[T-2(4-8)]

Bonds: “Sell bonds on the trolleys?” (C16, p103)(WVI-3)[T-2(4-8)]

Bonds: “We’ll stay at the trolley stops for a few hours and try to sell bonds to passengers coming and going.” (C16, p102)(WVI-3)[T-2(4-8)]

Bonds: “Are you selling Liberty Bonds now?” (C17, p106)(WVI-3)[T-2(4-8)]

Bonds: “I’ll greet passengers there for a while and hope to sell some bonds to them.” (C17, p106)(WVI-3)[T-2(4-8)]

Bonds: “I’ve been selling bonds, but mostly the War Stamps, to passengers and mill workers today.” (C17, p107)(WVI-3)[T-2(4-8)]

Bonds: “It isn’t right that we mothers send our precious boys to war, give all our time and money to the Red Cross and war bonds, and are still refused the right to vote.” (C17, p108)(WVI-3)[T-2(4-8)]

Bonds: By summer’s end, Millie had turned her thoughts to school, discouraged that sales of Liberty Bonds had greatly slowed. (C18, p111)(WVI-3)[T-2(4-8)]

Bonds: What a perfect opportunity to sell bonds! (C18, p111)(WVI-3)[T-2(4-8)]

Bonds: Smiling and explaining how Liberty Bonds worked, they sold a large number of War Stamps in just two hours. (C18, p113)(WVI-3)[T-2(4-8)]

Bonds: “But now you’ve left me with a new image—two young Camp Fire Girls selling bonds there during World War I.” (C18, p117)(WVI-3)[T-2(4-8)]

Booths: Leaving the pens, they headed for the small midway filled with food booths, pony rides, and horseshoe games. (C18, p114)[T-2(4)]

Booths: Late in the afternoon, Sam found his sister and Millie on a bench near the food booths. (C18, p116)[T-2(4)]

Bouquet: “Chasing after us so you could hand Mr. Roosevelt a bouquet of flowers?” (C16, p101)(WVI-2)[T-2(3-8)]

Brightened: Suddenly her eyes brightened. (C18, p117)(WVI-2)

Carriage: Horses, buggies, and carriage wagons lined Mill Road waiting to take passengers to the fairgrounds, nearly three miles away. (C18, p111)(WVI-2)

Certainly: “That certainly explains things.” (C17, p105)(WVI-2)

Certainly: “I certainly hope so!” (C17, p108)(WVI-2)

Certainly: “It’s certainly bigger.” (C18, p113)(WVI-2)

Chance: “I just want the chance for it to happen, is all.” (C18, p112)(WVI-2)

Chance: “I think there’s a chance.” (C18, p114)(WVI-2)

Chapters 16 - 18 - Sentences for Word Bank

Charge: “I’m in charge of publicity for the Red Cross, and I know we’ve shipped many of your group’s bandages and compresses overseas to the troops.” (C17, p107)(WVI-2)

Chuckled: “And then there was the fortune-teller...” Phil chuckled. (C18, p117)(WVI-2)

Claimed: Smiling, Millie moved down the aisle where Eleanor had claimed their seats. (C16, p102)(WVI-2)[T-2(4-8)]

Clasped: Millie and Eleanor clasped each other’s hands as they ran the last few yards to the Gray station. (C16, p101)(WVI-2)[T-2(4-6)]

Clutching: Clutching each other’s hands, they laughed together through the rest of the midway. (C18, p116)(WVI-2)

Comfortable: “I think we’re both comfortable enough now and can sell these bonds on our own.” (C16, p102)(WVI-3)

Commercial: To ease their nerves, Millie and Eleanor walked the commercial and residential streets of Gray together, feeling their way on how best to approach people and sell the bonds. (C16, p102)(WVI-2)

Commitment: She admired her unflappable commitment to the suffrage movement. (C17, p109)(WVI-3)

Compresses: “I’m in charge of publicity for the Red Cross, and I know we’ve shipped many of your group’s bandages and compresses overseas to the troops.” (C17, p107)(WVI-3)

Conductor: The conductor startled when he reached to punch Millie’s ticket. (C16, p101)(WVI-2)

Congress: “If President Wilson would bother himself to help get our federal suffrage amendment through Congress, we wouldn’t have to picket him at the White House gates, now, would we?” (C17, p109)(WVI-2)

Conscripted: “With so many men conscripted or volunteering into service, including farmers, it was a different atmosphere at the fair.” (C18, p117)(WVI-4)

Consented: Mama had consented only after issuing countless instructions. (C17, p105)(WVI-3)[T-2(4)]

Corps: “My two older sons have enlisted in the air corps,” she said, more quietly. (C17, p108)(WVI-2)

Coyly: Eleanor smiled coyly at him as she walked by. (C18, p112)(WVI-4)

Curious: Then a curious smile spread across his face. (C16, p101)[T-2(4-6)]

Curious: With their bright red scarves and Camp Fire Girls bands on their sleeves, the girls drew curious attention as people entered. (C18, p113)[T-2(4-6)]

Dangling: “She must have seemed like a scary old lady with her red kerchief, silver hoops dangling on her ears, stacks of bangles on her wrists, and colored beads around her neck.” (C18, p115)(WVI-2)[T-2(3)]

Chapters 16 - 18 - Sentences for Word Bank

Democracy: “It’s long past time we were recognized as citizens by this great democracy we live in.” (C17, p108)(WVI-2)[T-2(4-5)]

Demonstrations: She let her eyes take in the scenes around them—women, young boys, and old men working the animals, mucking the stalls washing down prized cows, and handling the many milking demonstrations. (C18, p114)(WVI-2)

Department: “Mama said we should shop at Peck’s Department Store.” (C16, p102)(WVI-2)

Designs: The first row of tables was filled with beautifully sewn handicrafts, fine needlework, and quilts of all colors and designs. (C18, p113)(WVI-2)

Difference: “Between the two of us, we’ll make a difference.” (C16, p102)(WVI-2)

Differently: “It feels strange—the war, and how so many people are having to manage differently back home.” (C18, p114)(WVI-2)

Disappeared: But Eleanor had already scurried over to her, and in seconds, she disappeared beneath the flap with the old woman. (C18, p114)(WVI-2)

Discouraged: By summer’s end, Millie had turned her thoughts to school, discouraged that sales of Liberty Bonds had greatly slowed. (C18, p111)(WVI-3)[T-2(4-7)]

Ease: To ease their nerves, Millie and Eleanor walked the commercial and residential streets of Gray together, feeling their way on how best to approach people and sell the bonds. (C16, p102)(WVI-2)

Echoed: Her mother’s words echoed in her ears: Millie, if you see that old crone again, turn your back and walk away from her.(C18, p115)(WVI-2)[T-2(3)]

Effort: “It’s very admirable, Millie, what you and the Camp Fire Girls are doing to support the war effort.” (C17, p107)(WVI-2)[T-2(3-4)]

Efforts: At the end of three weeks, when they felt they had exhausted their efforts in town, Millie came up with an idea. (C16, p102)(WVI-2)[T-2(3-4)]

Egregious: “Forgive me for such an egregious error,” he laughed. (C16, p101)(WVI-4)

Egregious: “That’s my egregious error.” (C16, p101)(WVI-4)

Elderly: On a small stage, two elderly fiddlers played a sprightly jig, rhythmically tapping their feet as they pulled their bows across the bellies of the strings. (C18, p114)(WVI-2)

Elegant: Millie thought she looked quite elegant. (C17, p107)(WVI-2)[T-2(5)]

Emblem: “And they’ll see the red, white, and blue ‘Service for Victory’ emblem on it. (C16, p102)(WVI-3)[T-2(5)]

Emerged: Finally, Eleanor emerged from the tent, and with a grin on her face, hurried over to Millie. (C18, p114)(WVI-2)

Chapters 16 - 18 - Sentences for Word Bank

Encounter: Biting her fingernails, Millie paced back and forth, her mind replaying her own encounter with the fortune-teller. (C18, p114)(WVI-3)[T-2(6-7)]

Enlisted: “My two older sons have enlisted in the air corps,” she said, more quietly. (C17, p108)(WVI-3)[T-2(4-8)]

Entrance: They strolled by tables of jams, vegetables, relishes, pickles, and baked goods including apple, pumpkin, squash, and berry pies before taking their positions at the exhibit hall’s entrance. (C18, p113)(WVI-2)

Error: “Forgive me for such an egregious error,” he laughed. (C16, p101)(WVI-2)

Error: “That’s my egregious error.” (C16, p101)(WVI-2)

Especially: “Especially now that women are supporting this horrible war.” (C17, p108)(WVI-2)

Events: “As I mentioned, it was mostly women and young boys that had to step forward and handle all the exhibits and events that men normally took care of.” (C18, p117)[T-2(4)]

Except: Over the last few months, both she and Eleanor had exhausted their territories, and except for those who continued to add to their War Stamps, there was no untapped market left in the Gray area. (C18, p111)(WVI-2)

Exhausted: At the end of three weeks, when they felt they had exhausted their efforts in town, Millie came up with an idea. (C16, p102)(WVI-2)[T-2(4-8)]

Exhausted: Over the last few months, both she and Eleanor had exhausted their territories, and except for those who continued to add to their War Stamps, there was no untapped market left in the Gray area. (C18, p111)(WVI-2)[T-2(4-8)]

Exhibit: They strolled by tables of jams, vegetables, relishes, pickles, and baked goods including apple, pumpkin, squash, and berry pies before taking their positions at the exhibit hall’s entrance. (C18, p113)(WVI-2)[T-2(3-5)]

Exhibition: “Let’s start in the Exhibition Hall.” (C18, p113)(WVI-2)

Exhibits: Horse stables, cattle, oxen, and goat pens, chicken coops, and rabbit cages made up most of the animal exhibits. (C18, p113)(WVI-2)[T-2(3-5)]

Exhibits: “As I mentioned, it was mostly women and young boys that had to step forward and handle all the exhibits and events that men normally took care of.” (C18, p117)(WVI-2)[T-2(3-5)]

Expect: “I didn’t expect this reaction!” (C16, p104)(WVI-2)

Explaining: Smiling and explaining how Liberty Bonds worked, they sold a large number of War Stamps in just two hours. (C18, p113)(WVI-2)

Explains: “That certainly explains things.” (C17, p105)(WVI-2)

Chapters 16 - 18 - Sentences for Word Bank

Familiar: As they neared the pens, the familiar smell of farm animals, the scent of trampled grass and earth, assailed their senses. (C18, p113)(WVI-2)[T-2(4-8)]

Favorite: “Well, now, if it isn’t my favorite passenger this morning,” said Joseph L’Heureux as he punched Millie’s ticket. (C17, p105)(WVI-2)

Federal: “If President Wilson would bother himself to help get our federal suffrage amendment through Congress, we wouldn’t have to picket him at the White House gates, now, would we?” (C17, p109)(WVI-2)[T-2(4-8)]

Figure: “You are one hard woman to figure out!” (C18, p112)(WVI-2)

Flicked: Eleanor’s eyes flicked back and forth between the two. (C18, p115)(WVI-2)[T-2(3-8)]

Flushed: Joe Happy’s face flushed. (C17, p106)[T-2(4--8)]

Forgive: “Forgive me for such an egregious error,” he laughed. (C16, p101)(WVI-2)[T-2(3)]

Forgive: “I’ll never quite forgive myself.” (C16, p101)(WVI-2)[T-2(3)]

Former: “Our former president was quite taken with your gesture.” (C16, p101)(WVI-3)

Forth: Biting her fingernails, Millie paced back and forth, her mind replaying her own encounter with the fortune-teller. (C18, p114)(WVI-2)[T-2(3-8)]

Forth: Eleanor’s eyes flicked back and forth between the two. (18, p115)(WVI-2)[T-2(3-8)]

Found: Instead, she found herself nodding her head in acknowledgment. (C18, p115)[T-2(5)]

Found: Late in the afternoon, Sam found his sister and Millie on a bench near the food booths. (C18, p117)[T-2(5)]

Fuss: “I don’t think Mama will put up a fuss if I’m only minutes away.” (C16, p103)[T-2(3-8)]

Future: “What did she tell you about your future?” (C18, p115)(WVI-2)[T-2(3)]

General: Two buildings: the tiny yellow station with its dark-green trim and a general store across the road. (C17, p106)(WVI-2)

Halt: “Aren’t you the young lady who nearly brought my trolley to a halt a few years back? (C16, p101)[T-2(3)]

Handful: The storekeeper, a kindly old man eager to chat, told Millie that a handful of workers usually walked up Mill Road at midday. (C17, p106) (WVI-2)

Heeding: Heeding her mother’s warnings, she told herself to turn and walk away. (C18, p115)(WVI-2)

Ignore: Too weary to refuse Sam’s offer to take her home, Millie even softened to his company, trying to ignore the butterflies rippling through her stomach whenever he looked at her. (C18, p116)(WVI-2)

Chapters 16 - 18 - Sentences for Word Bank

Image: “But now you’ve left me with a new image—two young Camp Fire Girls selling bonds there during World War I.” (C18, p117)(WVI-2)

Including: They strolled by tables of jams, vegetables, relishes, pickles, and baked goods including apple, pumpkin, squash, and berry pies before taking their positions at the exhibit hall’s entrance. (C18, p113)(WVI-2)[T-2(3)]

Institute: “I’m giving a talk at the Pennell Institute tonight.” (C17, p107)(WVI-3)[T-2(5-7)]

Instructions: Mama had consented only after issuing countless instructions. (C17, p105)(WVI-2)

Involved: “If this war comes to an early end, and I pray it does, then perhaps you might like to get involved with the suffrage movement.” (C17, p108)(WVI-2)[T-2(3-4)]

Involved: “It’s just that I keep dreaming of leaving the farm one day, maybe working in the city, or doing things like getting involved with the suffrage movement, and, well, I’m afraid of letting anything hold me back.” (C18, p112)(WVI-2)[T-2(3-4)]

Issued: Joe reached into his pocket and handed Millie his coins; in turn, she issued him a War Stamp and pasted it on a card for him to keep. (C17, p106)(WVI-2)[T-2(4-8)]

Issuing: Mama had consented only after issuing countless instructions. (C17, p105)(WVI-2)[T-2(3-4)]

Kindly: The storekeeper, a kindly old man eager to chat, told Millie that a handful of workers usually walked up Mill Road at midday. (C17, p106)(WVI-2)

Laughter: Eleanor broke into laughter. (C16, p104)(WVI-2)

Least: “At least Sam isn’t quite old enough to sign up.” (C18, p114)[T-2(4)]

Manage: “It feels strange—the war, and how so many people are having to manage differently back home.” (C18, p114)(WVI-2)

Marvelous: “Marvelous. I’m Mrs. Florence Whitehouse. And you are—?” (C17, p107)(WVI-2)

Mentioned: “As I mentioned, it was mostly women and young boys that had to step forward and handle all the exhibits and events that men normally took care of.” (C18, p117)(WVI-2)

Mounted: They watched teams of work horses being led to the dragging contests, gaudy plumes mounted on their large heads. (C18, p113)(WVI-2)[T-2(4-5)]

Neither: “Neither station is far.” (C16, p103)(WVI-2)

Nerves: To ease their nerves, Millie and Eleanor walked the commercial and residential streets of Gray together, feeling their way on how best to approach people and sell the bonds. (C16, p102)(WVI-2)

Chapters 16 - 18 - Sentences for Word Bank

Normally: “As I mentioned, it was mostly women and young boys that had to step forward and handle all the exhibits and events that men normally took care of.” (C18, p117)[T-2(6)]

Overseas: “I’m in charge of publicity for the Red Cross, and I know we’ve shipped many of your group’s bandages and compresses overseas to the troops.” (C17, p107)(WVI-2)

Paced: Biting her fingernails, Millie paced back and forth, her mind replaying her own encounter with the fortune-teller. (C18, p114)(WVI-2)[T-2(4)]

Perfect: What a perfect opportunity to sell bonds! (C18, p111)(WVI-2)[T-2(3-5)]

Persuade: “No, tonight I’m to talk about women’s suffrage, trying to persuade the good men of Gray to support our suffrage referendum coming up next month.” (C17, p108)(WVI-2)[T-2(5)]

Platform: Minutes later, the Azalea came to its first stop, West Cumberland. Millie stepped onto the station platform. (C17, p106)[T-2(3-5)]

Pleasant: “This way, please,” said a pleasant-looking young man at the fairgrounds gate. (C18, p112)(WVI-2)

Positions: They strolled by tables of jams, vegetables, relishes, pickles, and baked goods including apple, pumpkin, squash, and berry pies before taking their positions at the exhibit hall’s entrance. (C18, p113)(WVI-2)

Precious: “It isn’t right that we mothers send our precious boys to war, give all our time and money to the Red Cross and war bonds, and are still refused the right to vote.” (C17, p108)[T-2(3-8)]

Preferred: The next afternoon, Eleanor told Millie that her father preferred she stay closer to home. (C16, p103)(WVI-2)

Publicity: “I’m in charge of publicity for the Red Cross, and I know we’ve shipped many of your group’s bandages and compresses overseas to the troops.” (C17, p107)(WVI-3)

Purchase: Much to their relief, folks were kind, most only able to purchase the War Stamps, and those who refused did so with polite reluctance. (C16, p102)(WVI-2)[T-2(4-8)]

Reaction: “I didn’t expect this reaction!” (C16, p104)(WVI-2)

Realize: “Do you realize that women have been working for the vote for almost seventy years?” (C17, p108)(WVI-2)[T-2(4-8)]

Realize: “I didn’t realize you disliked farming, Millie.” (C18, p112)(WVI-2)[T-2(4-8)]

Recognition: Recognition flowed between them. (C18, p115)(WVI-3)[T-2(6-8)]

Recognized: “It’s long past time we were recognized as citizens by this great democracy we live in.” (C17, p108)(WVI-2)[T-2(3)]

Chapters 16 - 18 - Sentences for Word Bank

Referendum: “No, tonight I’m to talk about women’s suffrage, trying to persuade the good men of Gray to support our suffrage referendum coming up next month.” (C17, p108)(WVI-4)

Refused: Much to their relief, folks were kind, most only able to purchase the War Stamps, and those who refused did so with polite reluctance. (C16, p102)[T-2(3)]

Reluctance: Much to their relief, folks were kind, most only able to purchase the War Stamps, and those who refused did so with polite reluctance. (C16, p102)(WVI-2)

Remain: Although the trolley didn’t go into Cumberland Center, she was to remain at the Morrison Hill Station. (C17, p105)(WVI-2)

Residential: To ease their nerves, Millie and Eleanor walked the commercial and residential streets of Gray together, feeling their way on how best to approach people and sell the bonds. (C16, p102)(WVI-2)

Rippling: Too weary to refuse Sam’s offer to take her home, Millie even softened to his company, trying to ignore the butterflies rippling through her stomach whenever he looked at her. (C18, p116)(WVI-2)

Scanned: Eleanor scanned the fairgrounds. (C18, p112)(WVI-2)[T-2(4)]

Scenes: She let her eyes take in the scenes around them—women, young boys, and old men working the animals, mucking the stalls washing down prized cows, and handling the many milking demonstrations. (C18, p114)[T-2(3-5)]

Scent: As they neared the pens, the familiar smell of farm animals, the scent of trampled grass and earth, assailed their senses. (C18, p113)[T-2(3-4)]

Scurried: But Eleanor had already scurried over to her, and in seconds, she disappeared beneath the flap with the old woman. (C18, p114)(WVI-2)

Senses: As they neared the pens, the familiar smell of farm animals, the scent of trampled grass and earth, assailed their senses. (C18, p113)(WVI-2)

Shrugged: Millie shrugged. (C17, p105)(WVI-2)[T-2(4)]

Sighed: Then she sighed and leaned back in her seat. (C17, p108)(WVI-2)

Sparkling: Millie smiled back, taking in the woman’s blue eyes sparkling under a modish hat trimmed with bunches of flowers. (C17, p107)(WVI-2)

Spite: Hungry, in spite of their feet aching, both girls were pleased with the day’s Liberty Bond sales. (C18, p116)(WVI-3)

Spread: Then a curious smile spread across his face. (C16, p101)(WVI-2)Sprightly: On a small stage, two elderly fiddlers played a sprightly jig, rhythmically tapping their feet as they pulled their bows across the bellies of the strings. (C18, p114)(WVI-4)

Stalls: She let her eyes take in the scenes around them—women, young boys, and old men working the animals, mucking the stalls washing down prized cows, and handling the many milking demonstrations. (C18, p114)[T-2(3-8)]

Chapters 16 - 18 - Sentences for Word Bank

Startled: The conductor startled when he reached to punch Millie's ticket. (C16, p101)(WVI-2)

Stiffening: Stiffening, she said, "No, I made a promise." (C18, p115)(WVI-2)

Strolled: They strolled by tables of jams, vegetables, relishes, pickles, and baked goods including apple, pumpkin, squash, and berry pies before taking their positions at the exhibit hall's entrance. (C18, p113)(WVI-2)[T-2(4)]

Suffrage: "No, tonight I'm to talk about women's suffrage, trying to persuade the good men of Gray to support our suffrage referendum coming up next month." (C17, p107)(WVI-3)

Suffrage: "No, tonight I'm to talk about women's suffrage, trying to persuade the good men of Gray to support our suffrage referendum coming up next month." (C17, p108)(WVI-3)

Suffrage: "If this war comes to an early end, and I pray it does, then perhaps you might like to get involved with the suffrage movement." (C17, p108)(WVI-3)

Suffrage: "My teacher talked a little about the suffrage pickets and how they're bothering President Wilson." (C17, p108)(WVI-3)

Suffrage: "If President Wilson would bother himself to help get our federal suffrage amendment through Congress, we wouldn't have to picket him at the White House gates, now, would we?" (C17, p109)(WVI-3)

Suffrage: She admired her unflappable commitment to the suffrage movement. (C17, p109)(WVI-3)

Suffrage: "It's just that I keep dreaming of leaving the farm one day, maybe working in the city, or doing things like getting involved with the suffrage movement, and, well, I'm afraid of letting anything hold me back." (C18, p112)(WVI-3)

Support: "It's very admirable, Millie, what you and the Camp Fire Girls are doing to support the war effort." (C17, p107)(WVI-2)[T-2(3-7)]

Support: "No, tonight I'm to talk about women's suffrage, trying to persuade the good men of Gray to support our suffrage referendum coming up next month." (C17, p108)

Support: "Do you support them?" (C17, p108)(WVI-2)[T-2(3-7)]

Supporting: "Especially now that women are supporting this horrible war." (C17, p108)(WVI-2)[T-2(3-7)]

Surroundings: Millie waved to Joe Happy, and then took in the scant surroundings. (C17, p106)(WVI-2)

Tangled: "It's so tangled." (C17, p105)(WVI-2)

Territories: Over the last few months, both she and Eleanor had exhausted their territories, and except for those who continued to add to their War Stamps, there was no untapped market left in the Gray area. (C18, p111)(WVI-2)[T-2(3-5)]

Chapters 16 - 18 - Sentences for Word Bank

Tilted: The old woman tilted her head. (C18, p115)(WVI-2)[T-2(3-8)]

Trampled: As they neared the pens, the familiar smell of farm animals, the scent of trampled grass and earth, assailed their senses. (C18, p113)(WVI-2)

Trembling: “Millie, you’re trembling. (C18, p115)(WVI-2)[T-2(3-5)]

Unruly: “Since when has your unruly hair bothered you?” (C17, p105)(WVI-2)

Volunteering: “With so many men conscripted or volunteering into service, including farmers, it was a different atmosphere at the fair.” (C18, p117)(WVI-2)[T-2(3)]

Vote: “I’ve been angry that women couldn’t vote since I was seven! (C17, p108)(WVI-2)

Vote: “Do you think women will have the right to vote soon?” (C17, p108)(WVI-2)

Vote: “Do you realize that women have been working for the vote for almost seventy years?” (C17, p108)(WVI-2)

Vote: “It isn’t right that we mothers send our precious boys to war, give all our time and money to the Red Cross and war bonds, and are still refused the right to vote.” (C17, p108)(WVI-2)

Wander: Eager for a break, the girls left to wander about the animal pens, long believed to be the heart of the fair. (C18, p113)(WVI-2)

Wearing: “I think wearing our gray armbands may help talking to strangers easier, too.” (C16, p102)[T-2(6)]

Wearing: “I see you’re wearing a Camp Fire Girls armband on your sleeve.” (C17, p106)[T-2(6)]

Weary: Too weary to refuse Sam’s offer to take her home, Millie even softened to his company, trying to ignore the butterflies rippling through her stomach whenever he looked at her. (C18, p116)(WVI-2)[T-2(4-8)]

Whenever: Too weary to refuse Sam’s offer to take her home, Millie even softened to his company, trying to ignore the butterflies rippling through her stomach whenever he looked at her. (C18, p116)(WVI-2)

Words: Her mother’s words echoed in her ears: Millie, if you see that old crone again, turn your back and walk away from her.(C18, p115)[T-2(3-5)]